Building on his work in The Jesus Connection, Jan Linn calls for a fusion of evangelism and a new spirituality that offers a solid basis for mainline renewal. Churches talk about evangelism as if there is agreement on what it is and how its effectiveness is measured. This book challenges both assumptions. This book offers a view of evangelism that takes seriously the need to achieve a balance between what works and biblical faithfulness. Church leaders concerned about this ministry will find it both provocative and practical.
